GERMANY MAKES OFFER TO BELGIUM

BELGIUM PAWN FOR RETURN OF KAISER'S COLONIES?

Vague Report Comes of Offer Again to Neutralize Despoiled Nation

TEXT, AUSTRIAN PEACE PROPOSAL

Affirms People of All Nations Now Yearn for Agreement

LONDON, Sept. 15.—It is understood that the government has received the Austrian-Hungarian peace note and also the proposal, previously referred to, that all the powers should withdraw the troops from the Murnan territory.

It is also learned that Germany has made a peace offer to Belgium. The terms of this proposal, which Belgium is said to have refused, are that Belgium shall remain neutral until the end of the war.

That thereafter the entire economic and political independence of Belgium shall be reconstituted.

That the pre-war commercial treaties between Germany and Belgium shall again be put into operation after the war for an indefinite period.

That Belgium shall use her good offices to secure the return of the German colonies.

That the Flemish question shall be considered, and the Flemish minority, who sided with the German invaders, shall not be penalized.

The proposal contained no word respecting reparations or indemnities, no admission that Germany wronged Belgium.

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 15.—By the Associated Press.—In extending an invitation to all the belligerent governments to enter into non-binding discussions, at some neutral meeting place, the Associated Press government stated that the object of the conference would be to secure an exchange of views which would show "whether those prerequisites exist which would make the speedy inauguration of peace negotiations appear promising."

The Austrian proposal, which is announced in an official communication telegraphed here from Vienna, suggests that there be no interruption of the war, and that the "discussion" would be only so far as considered by the participants to offer prospects of success.

The proposal calls for all the belligerents to send delegates for a "confidential and unbinding discussion of the basic principles of the conclusion of peace, in a place in a neutral country and at a near date that would yet have to be agreed upon."

The proposal says the conference would be one in which the delegates would be charged to make known to one another the conception of their governments regarding those principles and to receive analogous communications, as well as to request and give frank and candid explanations of the points which need to be precisely defined.

The government announces that a note embodying its suggestions had been addressed to the various belligerent powers and that the Holy See had been apprised of the proposal in a special note.

The governments of the neutral states also had been made acquainted with the proposal.

The text of the official communication reads:

An objective and conciliatory examination of the situation of all the belligerent states no longer leaves doubt that all peoples are working for the end of the bloody struggle, and that the natural and comprehensive desire for peace, it has not so far been possible to create those preliminary conditions called for by the peace efforts in order to realize it and hence the governments at present still separate the belligerents for one another.

A more effective means must therefore be considered by which the responsible factors of all the countries can be offered an opportunity to investigate the present possibilities of an understanding.

The first step which Austria-Hungary, in accordance with the proposal, took on December 12, 1918, for the bringing about of peace did not lead to the end hoped for.

U. S. ADMINISTRATION SEES NO PENITENCE IN TEUTONIC OFFER

Another Step in Carefully Planned "Peace Offensive" to Break Up Allied Unity

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—Germany's latest peace offer, advanced through Austria, was officially stated today, best finds its answer in President Wilson's Baltimore speech, delivered last April.

"Force, force to the utmost, force without stint or limit, the righteous and relentless force which is the arm of justice, have found the way of the world and cast every selfish domination down in the dust."

That was the President's answer to the peace offensive, it is his answer now.

No one doubts that it is the answer of all the Allies.

While Austria's proposal, reported last night from Amsterdam, had not reached Washington in official form tonight, it is expected to follow through some neutral—possibly Sweden—and in it is recognized the long heralded peace offensive upon which Germany is counting to arouse enough "sympathy for peace among the people of the Allied countries to count an end of the war on terms which substantially would preserve the ruinous status quo."

The Allied leaders recognize it as an effort by Germany to obtain the best terms possible.

No Chance, Say Americans

There will be no round table conference, no sounding out process, such as Germany proposes, and which she hopes will give opportunity for the exchange of views between the belligerents. If any reply at all is made, it will be in the form of a statement of the United States and other belligerents, so that a reply for all may be made in one. On every side, among American officials and Allied diplomats, it seems agreed that the only ground on which Germany may have a conference is the acceptance of the principles laid down by President Wilson, and which have been accepted by all the Allies as their basis.

American officials have been noting for some time the various steps that have led up to the proposition for a meeting at some neutral point of discussion, and they are convinced that the object of the conference would be to secure an exchange of views which would show "whether those prerequisites exist which would make the speedy inauguration of peace negotiations appear promising."

The Austrian proposal, which is announced in an official communication telegraphed here from Vienna, suggests that there be no interruption of the war, and that the "discussion" would be only so far as considered by the participants to offer prospects of success.

SEE GERMANY'S HAND IN NEW MOVE MADE BY AUSTRIA

Is Vienna Put Up to Save Berlin's Face in Peace Offensive?

ALLIES COLD TO PROPOSAL

Note That It Comes at Same Time as Disclosures About Russia

(By the Associated Press)

Overhauling in interest even Marshal Foch's hammer blows against the hurried Germans is the Teutonic bid for peace made through the imperial government of Austria-Hungary.

The formal plea of Emperor Charles to the belligerents for a confidential and non-binding discussion on the basic principles for the conclusion of peace comes as the first sensational move in the "peace offensive," which has been expected since Germany's attempt to stagger the Allies from the thrusts of the British, French and Americans.

Washington and the Allied capitals hailed the call for a conference on neutral ground with surprise and skepticism. It is not a step which they would get better terms than they might expect when the war has been carried to the Rhine. They were convinced that Austria, whose people long have been weary, had been called upon to bear the brunt of making peace overtures and thus save the face of Germany.

Not only in Washington but in London and Paris pacifists found cold comfort. None of the governments involved was inclined to take seriously the request that delegates be sent to such a conference as that proposed by the Austrian rulers. It was pointed out that the United States and Entente Allies have made their peace aims so clear there can be no mistake as to the opportunity.

It is the opinion that "the Central Powers leave it no doubt that they are waging a war of defense for the integrity and security of their territories," was greeted with added skepticism in the face of the Washington disclosures, humbling completely the indignity which has greeted Russia.

Publication of the documents proving beyond all question that Germany had waited only for a plausible pretext to plunge the world into war, cast a sinister shadow over the benevolent protestations of Emperor William's closest ally.

It was accompanied also by the announcement that a German submarine had sunk the British steamship Galway Castle, with the loss of 189 lives. Ninety of those who perished were women and children. At the same time, the German government announced that it had renewed its attacks upon shipping on this side of the Atlantic, shelling only eighty miles off the coast a transport carrying Canadian sick and wounded.

Grim meaning was given the overtures of the apparent negotiator of the Austrian troops, which tried to block the way of the Americans were utterly demoralized and surrendered to a man.

TWO SACRAMENTO CHURCHES MERGE

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 15.—It was announced today that the two churches of the city, the First Baptist and the First Methodist, had agreed to merge. The merger is explained as a war measure, and is for more aggressive work with a larger program. The plan goes into effect following the annual conference at Stockton this week.

DEMAND AUSTRIA BE DISMEMBERED

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—Resolutions demanding the dismemberment of the Austro-Hungarian empire and pledging the various oppressed nations of the empire to put aside political and religious differences until the cause of freedom is won, were adopted today by representatives of the subject peoples at a victory meeting for oppressed nationalities of Austria-Hungary, held in Carnegie hall.

AMERICANS ADVANCE ON LORRAINE FRONT 33 MILES IN WIDTH

AIR ASSAULTS MADE ON METZ BY ALLIED PLANES

Now Within Gun Range of Metz; Pershing Shows Details of St. Mihiel Success

LONDON, Sept. 15, 6:25 p. m.—General Pershing's army, according to this afternoon's news, is making fine progress. Since yesterday afternoon it has advanced from two to three miles on a thirty-three mile front and the fortress guns of Metz have come into action against it.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN LORRAINE, Saturday, Sept. 14, 8:30 p. m.—(By the Associated Press).—Among the prisoners were several hundred from two Austrian divisions who were cut off when the Americans advanced in the attack from behind after the Germans had broken. They were bitter against the Germans, whom they said had given way before the Americans, allowing them to be surrounded, and they had no chance to fight.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY ON THE LORRAINE FRONT, Sept. 15, 3 p. m.—(By the Associated Press).—The American army today continued the construction of their lines facing the recently strengthened Hun positions. Additional territory was brought in as the long line was straightened, the American troops on the extreme right swinging along the line of the front.

It was not a day of battle for most of the ground, however, so much as for the establishment of a more definite front. Notwithstanding the evidence that much time has been spent in improving the old Hindenburg line, it would not surprise military critics here if it were yielded without a great struggle. The Germans preferring to sacrifice even their old positions to the obvious determination of the Americans to advance beyond the line. Plans are observed in Donmarin La Coudre, in the day, in almost every case where evacuation has been planned, the Germans have carried out a systematic destruction of certain parts of their stores, buildings and their wooden buildings and barns.

15,000 WOMEN NOW IN FOURTH GERMAN ZONE

BRITISH HEADQUARTERS, FRANCE, Sept. 15.—Striking evidence of the shortage of German man power is given by prisoners. They say that men, women and boys who have been ordered for national service at home are being brought to the back areas to replace troops along the lines of communication. They assert that there are already some fifteen thousand women in the fourth German army zone line. It is reported that boys of 17 are being assembled in the region of Sedan for military service.

FINANCE BILLS ON THIS WEEK

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—Measures for the financing of the war will occupy the attention of Congress this week. In the House the war revenue bill will be taken up tomorrow for discussion for amendment under the five-minute debate rule, with a view to final action before Saturday. The Senate will take up the bill Tuesday, when it will begin consideration of the communication liberty bill, and measure designed to amend the act of March 3, 1917, which was passed on the same day.

Waterman Calls Mass Meeting at Auditorium Saturday-Night

Herbert Hoover "win-the-war-food-program" will be announced in every detail at a great mass meeting of patriotic Americans to be held at the Municipal Auditorium next Saturday night. On that night the Food Administration, headed by Herbert Hoover, will reach Fresno. And Edward F. Trefz, the speaker came here last winter and thrilled 5,000 people with his story of the Hun march through Belgium and caused the great audience to jump to its feet and cheer.

All the arrangements for the meeting will be in charge of County Administrator George W. Waterman and the Auditorium is expected to be filled to the roof.

A team of six speakers selected to cover Northern California begins its campaign tomorrow with a big meeting in Santa Francisco, at which the speakers will be State Food Commissioner Ralph P. Merritt and Trefz, who has just returned from the battle fronts of Europe where he was sent by Mr. Hoover to make an exhaustive study of food problems.

The tour of the "flying squadron" has been arranged by Dr. Edward Krehbiel of the speakers' bureau of the State Food Administration and Trefz has been assigned to speak only the larger cities of the state as he is the most formidable orator in the squadron.

TWENTY-ONE HUN TOWNS BOMBED

LONDON, Sept. 15.—Twenty-one important German towns have been bombed by the British Independent Air Force during the month of August, according to information from an authoritative source. The objectives were railway stations, chemical and other factories and other targets, and the towns included Frankfurt, Mannheim, Metz, Saarbrücken, Tübingen, three times each; Karlsruhe, Ludwigsburg, Ulm, Bamberg and Trever. The total weight of bombs dropped in these raids was more than one hundred tons.

Gospel Themes in Fresno's Churches

ALL MEN HAVE TASK IN LIFE

—Grace M. E.

"So many worldly distractions interfere to keep us from completing our spiritual task," declared Rev. W. L. Dexter at Grace M. E. Church yesterday morning, "that most of us at the end of a lifetime will have to call on the mercy of our Father." Rev. Dexter spoke on "The Completed Task." He said the world was awakening to the fact that the gospel was not the means of providing a fire escape from hell, but in turning the lives of men towards virtue and righteousness.

In part, there was a small group of people gathered in an upper chamber in one of the world's capitals, many centuries ago, discussing certain events that were to happen in the life of one of them, their leader, but a few hours hence. That leader, with a fear or tremor of voice told the little company that he was to be put to death by the priests and political leaders of his day because he had been outspoken in his denunciation of their wicked schemes and selfish, unrighteous, and unchristianlike conduct. He was to be put to death by the priests and political leaders of his day because he had been outspoken in his denunciation of their wicked schemes and selfish, unrighteous, and unchristianlike conduct.

Before that little company dispersed a prayer is offered by the leader in which he reveals that he has been sent into the world to perform a certain task which he has the consciousness of having completed and so states in the words of the text:

All Have Task. It is not time of each individual that comes into this world that a specific task has been given him to perform? Is not the great sin then the sin of failure to perform that task faithfully?

It is with life. Our Father has placed us here and given us the raw materials from which to weave our own individual designs into the great fabric of life. As we come to the end of accountability, we hear the still small voice directing us to the task of the day and the pattern we must follow, but so many loud and strange voices are clamoring for our attention and directing us to patterns that have been followed by others, whom the world calls successful, that we are gradually drawn into the great current of unrighteousness, worldliness and selfishness that sweeps on to the close of life's short day. We keep promising ourselves that we will finish the task before the setting of life's sun.

How ashamed we stand beside men who have poured their lives out unselfishly to make this world what God would have it to be.

Too much of the teaching and evangelism of the past has had a false note in it. The appeal has been made to the law of self-interest to certain forms of conduct, and that they might escape hell and land in heaven. They were made more fearful of hell than they were of sin and yet the whole plan and scheme of God's universe, so far as humanity is concerned, is upset and destroyed by sin.

World Awakening. This old world is coming to a new view of the mission of our Lord. To this world it is that it was not to provide a fire escape but to regenerate the heart of the world that man will stand in his true relationship to God, himself and his fellow man and that new and wonderful relationship will work out his salvation by unselfishly performing the God given task that is his.

When we have willingly gone forth to the task laid down for us by our Savior and to the best of our ability accomplished it and can say "I have knowingly wronged no man, then at the close of life's short day, we can say with the apostle of old: 'I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith.' Henceforth there is laid up for me, a crown of righteousness, which the Lord the righteous Judge shall give at that day; and not to me only, but unto all them also that love his appearing."

WORLD SUFFERING FOR MISBELIEFS
—St. Paul's M. E.

That the world is suffering the curse of war today because of its unbelief and misbeliefs, was the opinion expressed by Bishop Horace M. DuBose at the morning service of St. Paul's M. E. church yesterday morning. He preached on the subject, "The Crisis of Thinking," and chose for his text Galatians 1:8: "Though we or an angel from heaven, preach unto you any other gospel, let him be accursed."

"The world of today," he said, "has been awakened by the rude shocks of war not only to a sense of its heinous and deadly sins, but also to a realization of its grotesque and monumental misbeliefs concerning the one only gospel of the world's salvation. Deadly sin is the offspring of unbelief and misbelief alike. A perverted mind inevitably begets a polluted heart."

"The twin pests of the world today are its old heresies and its new sins. Deadly alike to the man who hears them and the man who preaches them are these old heresies. An old error admitted to the mind becomes quickly a new sin in the heart. This illustrates how the world has come to its present state of corrupted thought and faith. Men still gladly believe a lie, not knowing, not seeking, that the end is judgment and eternal death."

"The Galatians, to whom St. Paul came on his first missionary journey, gladly accepted the gospel of the crucified Christ, and for a time were happy and sound in their faith; but soon they listened to old wives' tales concerning salvation and, and so drifted into idolatry, witchcraft and drunkenness."

Leads to Militarism. "The early Roman church, before whom St. Paul suffered martyrdom, at first trusted in the naked gospel of the crucified Son of Man; but soon mingled its simple faith with the rites and idolatries of the pagans about it, and then died the spiritual death of the Dark Ages. With the coming of the Renaissance, and the Reformation, Germany believed the gospel of justification by faith, and so became the thought-leader and the spiritual teacher of the world; but too soon Germany, like the Galatians, listened to the old wives' tales of Schopenhauer, Nietzsche and the rest, and so was led into bondage, and has at last been dragged a victim to the iron altars of Prussian militarism."

England of the eighteenth century steadily listened gladly to the Wesleyan doctrine of the witness of the spirit, and of salvation through the blood of Jesus; but England of the nineteenth century went after rationalism and utilitarianism, so that England of the twentieth century is reaping a harvest of blood and sorrow from the very nation who taught her the doctrine of unfaith and misbelief."

"And America! In the eighteenth century and the early nineteenth century, America listened gladly to the gospel as preached by Jonathan Edwards, Francis Asbury and the fathers of this mid-continent revival; but alas! too soon Americans have listened to false teachers and their deadly heresies, and so a terrible reckoning is at hand. Old heresies, like Darwinism, Russell, and wizened old women, with fables neither scientific nor Christian, have led a multitude of Americans away from the truth of salvation. The twentieth century is reaping a harvest of such false teachings has fallen."

"The gospel of the crucified Christ is the only hope of the world. Whatsoever is contrary thereto is death eternal."

MACHINES COLLIDE.
While driving north on X street early yesterday morning, Jacob Trutt struck a machine driven by Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Harris, 3033 Washington street, according to police reports. Both machines were badly damaged. The latter party was accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Harris, 2304 Lewis street. No one was reported injured.

CHRIST IN WAR TO ESTABLISH PEACE
—St. Paul's M. E.

"With the attacks of the Allies making dents in the German lines and the consequent whispers of peace that have arisen still fresh in the minds of the congregation, Rev. P. Carl Trues, pastor of the First Baptist church of Selma, preaching in St. Paul's M. E. church, Fresno, yesterday morning, chose as the subject of his sermon: "False Peace." "They have healed Hagar and the hurt of my people slightly," saying, "Peace, Peace, when there was no peace," was the text.

"At the beginning of this world war in 1914," he said, "I was very undecided as to the part I should play. I was torn between a closer study of the Word of God, and especially the life and teachings of Christ, I became fully convinced that Christ was a King of War, as well as the Prince of Peace. I very quickly saw that He was the Prince of Peace, the Incarnation of Righteousness, warring against the unrighteousness of this world."

Christ in War. "Christ in this war? Certainly not a man who is a student of history will deny this for a moment. Why? In order that He may establish peace—in order that His gospel may be preached to all nations—in order that democracy may reign throughout the world. It was war that brought the nations of the world back before the steady onslaught—the ceaselessly advancing hosts of the Americans, British and French armies. 'God help us,' he cries, 'they that stand deep in the blood of slaughter, Belgian babies, non-combatant men, women, nurses and wounded, and beg God to help them. They stand convicted of crimes unmentionable and cry for God to help them. They wallow in the scenes of their horrible depravity and misery and plead with God for help. They bring to the world the most awful of all wars and hope that God will help them. They tear down altars and demolish churches and expect God to help them. They killed the prophets and violated the women of the church and pray 'God help us.' They torture prisoners and innocent women and children and pray to God for help, and they are not repentant, yet they pray 'God help us.' They are not sorry for their barbarian lawlessness, but they pray for God's help. The God we know, the Christ whom we love and serve is not the accomplice of murderers and robbers, the ravishers, the Hun."

No Lasting Peace. "There can be no lasting peace on earth so long as Satan is unbound, neither can there be peace so long as there is a Kaiser on earth. Every peace proposal that comes from the Kaiser and his allies, even though it fully be the head of a nation, is a supposed neutral nation, is two-fold the work of Satan."

"First, they do not offer to make right the great wrongs done, they do not offer to eradicate the evil that caused the war. Second, every proposal is only the effort to establish a religion of Autocracy and defeat our program of preparation. Just so far as we listen to any peace proposal we help to defeat the next Liberty Loan and Y. M. C. drive. The Kaiser always has his propaganda working as we are about to launch some great forward movement in our preparation. He is busy now. We have just started the world in preparation for 1919."

"The fact such as the world has never known before—men that are ready to shed their last drop of blood for Christ, Home and Liberty. All those that dare to advocate peace, such as those as in the case of the Kaiser or his helpers are traitors."

Gospel Gives Peace. "We have not, nor never will outgrow the religion of that old, old song, 'How Firm a Foundation.' That last verse will live as long as the sun continues to give light to this old world of ours."

"The Soul that on Jesus hath leaned for repose, I will not, I will not desert to His foe."

That Soul though all Hell should endeavor to shake, I'll never, no never, no never forsake. I'll never, no never, no never forsake."

"That is what the boys believe in the training camps; they call for this song; they listen with the greatest interest to the preacher that preaches this simple, yet beautiful and satisfying gospel. The church they want to find when they return is the church that declares the old, old gospel in all its beauty, the gospel that brings the true peace that passeth all understanding."

NEED UNITY TO SECURE VICTORY
—Northside Christian

"Two well known facts," declared Rev. Charles Laurant Beal, in his sermon at the North Side Christian church yesterday morning, "the first is this: a successful leader must be trained. And the second one is that a united people has the best chance of winning a victory."

A large congregation filled the church and seemed delighted to have the church resume its regular services for the fall and winter. A business meeting will be held by the members of this congregation in October, according to the announcement made yesterday.

"There are people who contend," he said, "that an untrained person stands as good a chance as a trained one and point to some college man who has failed to make good as a preacher. He has an education in a hindrance to a man. But such a critic fails to notice that from the lowest private on up through the ranks to Marshal Poeh, every man in the army is a trained man. He is a student of history, of the most efficient the man. And during this month thousands of letters have been sent from the national capital to ministers and others urging them to do all they could to prevent the young men and women of the army and navy from being trained as the leaders of our nation."

Unity Needed. "The second fact as I have already mentioned is that a united people has the best chance of winning a victory. The best chance of winning a victory is to have a united people. We are all agreed on this, and the immediate success of the Allies under the command of one commander-in-chief is but another strong proof of this fact."

"The apostle was thoroughly convinced that the greatest leader, the world had ever seen was Christ, and the people who became His followers would eventually rule the earth. They would not conquer the earth by force of arms but by love. But before love can have control of the heart a lot of other things must be moved out. The house must be cleaned, and the words of our text tell us how this is to be done. 'We help clean our own hearts. We have purified your souls by your obedience to the truth.' We are informed. Hence obedience is the sole evidence by which a man can show that he has answered the call of Christ. The Holy Spirit is the guide of judgment and the still doing their part in a man's new birth, but it remains for the man to purify his heart by his obedience which opens the way for God to burn out the dross."

Real Brotherhood. "There is true brotherhood, one that is ruled by love. We have too many 'duty brothers,' men who are not really interested in your need, but feel it is a duty to call on you. The real brother is the one whose heart prompts him to call and inquire after you because he really sympathizes with you."

"Men, like the faded petals of a flower, pass away, but the Word of God lives and abides forever. It will be present to accuse men in the court of judgment. Every man has been given me for my guidance, and it will never be changed although everything else is destroyed. The Bible contains the Word of God. Neglect its teachings and you are neglecting the Word of God. It is the day of training for leadership and the great men, the real leaders like President Wilson, are the leaders of the world."

"The apostle urges us to put out of our lives the things that are ugly, such as malice, guile, hypocrisy, envy and evil speaking about other people, and to long for the spiritual milk that will grow the milk must be unadulterated, without worldly chaff dust in it."

Value of Training. "Again I wish to say what I said in the beginning. The war has caused us to see the value of training and a united fighting force. The members of the church need to take this lesson home. There never was a time in the world's history when there was such a demand for a united church filled with trained disciples."

"I went to the fair some years ago and stood by a pen of blooded hogs in the midst of which was the man who had raised these hogs. I said the weather was fine and he said something about the price of one of his hogs. I tried several times to engage him in conversation, but the only thing he knew or cared to know was hogs. Now the raising of fine stock is a commendable thing, but when a man fixes his eyes exclusively on hogs and mud and dollars he misses the opportunity of being a man with high ideals. Too many people are looking down instead of looking up and all around. The trained man looks around for the good of his fellow men. This is a time of great gifts, great sacrifices, and great sympathy. The call of the Red Cross, the starving Armenians, the spiritual needs of our boys in the trenches has not been uttered in vain. Everybody is learning to love, sympathize and give. There are great ideals. Let us continue to cultivate them. And we can best do this by becoming disciples of the great leader, Jesus Christ."

CHURCH AIDS MEN IN HIGHEST NEEDS
—First Congregational

"The Church" was the subject of the morning service at the First Congregational church yesterday, when President C. S. Nash of the Pacific School of Religion, Berkeley, occupied the pulpit in the absence on leave of Rev. T. T. Giffen, pastor of the church.

President Nash claimed that the church was a necessary institution for the moral elevation of mankind. It was not a body of perfect people, he said, but it had for its object the mutual help of persons who strove after the highest things. The religious instinct, he declared, was one of the deepest in human nature, and acted as a guide to mankind towards other ideals than mere material satisfaction.

In part, he spoke as follows: "Paul in the Epistle to the Ephesians says that Christ loved the church and gave His life for it. Though Christ is reported as mentioning the church but twice, He certainly had in mind those who should become the organized body of His followers. These He loved and prayed for and for them He gave His life. His followers should imitate their Master by being devoted to the church which perpetuates His name and motives His kingdom."

What the Church is. "The church is not a body of perfect people, but of persons believing in Christ, helping one another to be like Him and united in spreading His rule in the world. The church has the highest quality of all social organizations. It is the only one on the basis of what is best in him. It aims to serve men in their highest needs. Religion is the deepest thing in human nature, and the church is the religious organization."

Church Environment Best. "The church is the best and most helpful place for children and young people, and nothing is so important as to bring our children up into mature years undisciplined and morally strong. The church is the best place for mature people to serve their fellowmen. It is the choicest place for the helplessness needed by the aged, the sick and the sorrowing."

Church Not Supplanted. "Attachment to the church is looser now than years ago. The church used to be the center of community life. Now many other centers of interest and opportunity have arisen, and many social groups for moral and religious service. But the church remains the fundamental religious body. It has been the source of all that is best in human life, and but for the church all other forms of betterment and salvation would fall."

It should also be seen that religion requires organization and promotion as truly as any other cause. No great human interest can prosper unorganized. And religion, the highest interest of men, deserves the wisest organization and most effective promotion."

Service Needed. "Devotion to the church must take the form of active and faithful service in our own church. Too often our church gets the little we can spare from other things. Those who love and esteem it and are faithful in duty in it develop the finest kind of characters and serve the world at the most effective point."

KERMAN BOY RUNS OFF TO SEE SHOW

That he wanted to see the circus was the reason given by Fred Crawford, a 11-year-old Kerman boy, for running away from home, when arrested by Traffic Officer Nicely yesterday afternoon. The little fellow, who was riding on a milk wagon when apprehended, says he left home shortly before noon in a milk wagon and sought to ride to Fresno with a man, but only got to see the parade after all as he had but fifteen or twenty cents on his arrival.

During his stay in town he had managed to eke out an existence by selling the Republican, which he had stolen from a house at night. He would sleep in an old shed on east Main street. He was taken to the detention home, pending advice from his father, Eugene Crawford, employed on a ranch near Kerman.

SEVERAL BURGLARIES REPORTED
Melik Mirdesio complained to the police yesterday that his room in the White hotel was entered by two men late Saturday night and $5 in silver taken. Another guest of the same place, George Besanoff of Fresno, also has a claim to a burglary. At 10 o'clock Elkin watch, valued at $30. Another burglary reported to the police was that of a suit of khaki clothes and watch from the home of Gemai-Cunpos, 333 Kern street.

GOD INTERVENES ON SIDE OF RIGHT
—First Presbyterian

Rev. T. W. Berger, who is engaged in F. M. C. A. work at the Presidio, San Francisco, preached at the First Presbyterian church, Fresno, yesterday morning. He said: "There was no evening service, the pastor, Rev. George P. Sevier, being absent from Fresno."

Rev. Berger took as his theme the remark of the Prophet Elisha to his companions, when they had been surrounded by the Syrian enemy: "Fear not, for they that be with us are more than they that are with them."

The miracle by which God, coming to the rescue of his followers, turned the enemy to blindness, was the text for a modern parable of God's intervention on the side of those that fight in His name. It was a glorification of the overcoming of man's numbers by the force of righteousness, a discovery of the will of God in the success of determined spirit over brute strength in combat.

The preacher cited many illustrations in history to show how God intervenes in every great battle of human progress. The defeat of the Spanish Armada, sent to wipe out English Protestantism by the weight of arms, was brought about by Providence, he said. Victor Hugo was cited to show that the French nation in the interest of a military conquest, were defeated not by the skill of Wellington but of Blucher, but by the force of lesser numbers of men armed by righteousness against world evil.

This consciousness of spiritual superiority, the preacher declared, is the foundation in every great victory. George Washington, praying in Valley Forge, Lincoln on bent knees during the darkest hours of the war for the preservation brought into their leadership the greater power of divine assistance.

UNTRUSTWORTHY

The wolf that mangled Belgium, that planned to devour Serbia on the pretense that an incubator had been murdered, that despoiled Russia, has not been half beaten. It is not even yet a question of punishment—it is a matter of protecting the world from the vicious attacks of these assassin nations again within a generation that we ourselves may yet see—this is the reason why the offer of Austria must be flatly rejected.

For the war is not now, in any sense, a matter of discussion. What could we do for treatment, discuss?

Could the American delegates to such a peace conference as is proposed by Austria discuss the leaving of German influence in Belgium? Could they discuss a future to rehabilitate the homes of the men who have been exiled from that land? Could they discuss a continuance of the German hold on Lithuania and Finland and Estonia and the Ukraine? Could they weigh words about the right of undersea boats to interfere with the sea traffic of neutral nations?

Of course these things are quite beyond the range of possible discussion. If not these questions, what would there be for a peace conference to talk about?

Certainly there is a reason for Austrian anxiety, a reason which causes the statesmen of that patchwork administration to hurry in this offer ahead of the march of the Allies on Metz. If the principles that have been enunciated by the statesmen of the Entente Allies signify anything at all, they mean that there shall be no such Austria as we have now. It means that Austria shall be stripped of her subject Poles and Slavs and Czechs and that Hungary shall be stripped of her Slovaks and Croatians and Rumanians, and that the real Austria and the real Hungary, not these padded serf holders, may continue their dual alliance if they please.

Would it be possible for American or for British or for French delegates to go to this proposed peace conference and discuss whether the people of Jugoslavia shall be left under the control of Hungary? Has not the faith of the United States been pledged to the freedom of this people?

And yet, it is possible for the government of Austria, in the face of impending dissolution at the hands of the Entente powers, to declare that "peace" is the chief consideration of the whole world.

The Central Powers may now believe that peace at any price is the most desirable thing in the world. The people of the United States do not. If peace at any price had been the first consideration, we would never have entered upon the war. We were not compelled to go into the struggle except by a sense of righteousness and of defense of principles which made our nation worth having and our existence worth continuing or sacrificing in their cause.

We would find the loss of morale, due to stopping to discuss a possible abandonment of Belgium, more costly to our chance of success than would be any defeat in battle. Austria talks of letting the war go on while the peace discussion was being had. But the fact of talking peace on any such terms would cripple our men's arms and shrivel their souls.

There is only one way for the world to get peace—that is to wipe out the bad faith that has caused this war.

PEACE TO BELGIUM?

If the reported separate peace proposals said to have been offered to Belgium by Germany are true in anything like the form sent out, they constitute the most amazing product of the German mind yet manifested in the war.

That Germany should make a peace offer to Belgium is not inconsistent with German policy; in fact, it is in line with Von Hertling's announced policy of separate peace policies. That the offer should come at this time is not particularly surprising, as it is in line with the expected peace offensive. Also, it is not unlikely that Austria, having again been forced to take the humiliating role of caspary, may have insisted that Germany give some public indication of pacific intentions.

The selection of Belgium as the country for the first separate peace drive reveals a certain cunning, but of a sort that only Teutonic psychology could for a moment imagine could be successful. Combining military and political advantages, the German super-statesmen evidently regard it as a brilliant stroke.

From the military standpoint the joker lies in the clause "that Belgium shall remain neutral until the end of the war." In other words, if Germany plans a retirement to her own borders because of Allied pressure, it would be delightful to interpose a neutral state between the Allied armies and the German borders. True, Germany at the beginning violated Belgian neutrality, and now proposes to call upon that same neutrality to save herself. Could super-insincerity go further?

Of course, if such an offer has been made, it has not been proposed in any sincerity. Germany knows that the plucky little nation that refused to barter its honor at the beginning of the war and has suffered four years of hell, is not now going to become the alibi among the nations. And even if such a thing were conceivable—which it is not—Belgium has signed a solemn treaty not to make separate peace, and to accept Germany's terms would constitute in itself a casus belli. Germany knows this and knows that Belgium offering an insult she is proposing an impossibility. The offer, if it has been made, is purely for home consumption, to help further divide the German people with the idea that the government is really trying to make peace.

But the supreme insolence of all is that Belgium shall use her good offices to secure the return of the German colonies? If this clause stood alone it would be natural to assume that it was more euphemistic language suggesting a trade on the basis of the status quo. But if such is intended Germany is in the wrong venue. Such a proposal would have to be addressed to the Entente powers as a whole; or at least to England. Taking the words in their obvious meaning Germany is appealing to Belgium to become mediator for her. Doubtless Germany feels that after the cruel way in which Belgium treated her at the beginning of the war, Belgium should do this much in simple reparation, and instead of offering indemnities to Belgium, Germany is doubtless surprised by her own moderation in not demanding indemnities.

The peace offer, if it has been made—and it is hard to give it credence—is manifestly insincere and dishonest.

PLAYGROUNDS WEEK OPENS WITH SONG AND SPEAKING

Crowds See "Sleeping Beauty" Played at Fink-Smith in Afternoon

Dickey Playgrounds Tonight; National Spirit of Play to Be Conserved

The first exercises of National Playgrounds week in Fresno were held at the Fink-Smith grounds yesterday afternoon, with an attendance of nearly 1,000 people, men, women and children came to participate in the exercises and hear the program of music and literary numbers. Miss Myrtle Price had general charge.

Superintendent Guelger reports the success of the first program augurs well for the series this week. The program will be given at Dickey grounds tonight and at the Fink-Smith grounds tomorrow night.

A woman's dream. Some years ago Mrs. Julia Fink-Smith, traveling in New York, saw only the children of the wealthy on playgrounds, enjoying themselves. She came back to Fresno planning to give some of her property to the city for a playground for rich and poor alike. At that time she said she did not expect to live to see the city made use of for playgrounds, but the city quickly availed itself of the opportunity, and she often comes to watch the youth at play. Play week is a national movement, fostered by the government, in the belief that "all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy." American children are not to be robbed of their childhood when the grown-ups go to war.

The program yesterday was given as follows:
"America," story by Miss Emma Nye, dance by play-ground girls, Belva Newman as "Bitter Rose Bud," Gladys Langley as the "Wicked Pay," and Inez Maynard as "Princess Charming," which was accompanied by a song by a group of twenty led by Mrs. Lillian Davis.

Mrs. George Taylor spoke on patriotic questions, and told of Red Cross relief work. The war work was accompanied by a song by the chorus, trained by Mrs. Lillian Davis, sang national airs. The open air work, joined in by the audience at the last, was most inspiring.

Mrs. Nye recited "The Colored Soldier" effectively.
These in the dramatic sketch were the following:
Mrs. L. J. Davis, Mrs. Morris, Miss Edwina Edwards, Miss Winifred Edwards, Mrs. Cannon, Mrs. Rose Hamilton, Mrs. Harrie, Mrs. Hiram, Mr. Hiram, Miss L. Watkins, Mr. Samuel Hamilton, Jr., Mr. Earl Jones, Mrs. Sculley, Mrs. Greenly, Miss Agnes Helge.

Prof. Schmeerkase taken prisoner. Exploiter of Chloria Gas Used by Germans as War Measure

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Sept. 14.—(Reuters). Among the captives taken by the Americans at Thioncourt was Professor Otto Schmeerkase, the exploiter of chloria gas as a form of civilized torture.

An American scout attached to the force working eastward from the Meuse today described the difficult problems which arise affecting the success of the enterprise as the darkness set in. It was not until dawn that the enemy would give trouble after dark. The exact positions reached by the southern force were unknown, and there was no means of estimating the enemy's force, which was escaping from the southern front, and its powers to break down efforts to enclose it. It was not until 1 o'clock in the evening that the end of the retreating procession, bearing shields and blankets from beds and seeking any refuge from women's ward-robes, was seen. The enemy was in the front of the village of St. Michel.

The report of the retreating procession was orderly, adding:
"The Germans were in a hurry, but not in a mess."

CRUELTY TO NATIVES IN GERMAN COLONIES

LONDON.—A report containing evidence of the brutal methods employed by Germany in the administration of her colonies in Africa, made public today by Edmund H. L. Georges, acting secretary of the Interior, Union of South Africa, constitutes the British government's reply to Dr. Sells, the German secretary of state for the colonies, that Germany would demand the return of her colonies at the peace conference.

The report is considered an indictment of German fitness to rule the black natives of Africa. The evidence on which the report is based are taken from official German documents at Windhoek, from sworn statements by native chiefs and by Europeans familiar with the country and from the writings of Governor Leutwein, who held from 1894 to 1905; Dr. Paul Khorback, Dr. Karl Dove and others. Altogether the report refutes in detail Dr. Sells' recent claim that "Germany's pre-war humane treatment of the native races won for her the moral right to be a great colonial power." In view of this claim the following statement by Acting Secretary Georges is interesting:

"The native opinion here is unanimously against any idea of their ever being handed back to the tender mercies of Germany. Any suggestion of the possibility of an act of this kind on the part of Great Britain produces the utmost consternation."

The report shows that the first twenty-five years of German rule in southwest Africa was an unbroken record of official bad faith, private oppression, swindles, looting and robberies culminating in the Herero and Hottentot rebellions.

When the Germans first arrived, says the report, they entered into agreements with the native chiefs, but these became scraps of paper and the natives were ruthlessly deprived of their best land. Traders and settlers robbed them of their cattle and the law subsequently prevented the natives from possessing large herds of stock. The natives were thus driven to work at ridiculously inadequate wages and often never were paid. They were treated like slaves and their womenfolk were habitually maltreated by the Germans, who took them into forced concubinage.

Ruthless Cruelty. These were some of the things which goaded the natives into rebellions which were suppressed by ruthless cruelty resulting practically in the extermination of the three tribes involved. The Hereros were reduced from 80,000 to 15,000, the Hottentots from 20,000 to 5,000 and the Berg Damaras from 30,000 to 12,500. Thus 50 per cent of the Herero people disappeared and more than half of the Hottentots and Berg Damaras shared the same fate. The lenient governor Leutwein was succeeded by the notorious governor Theodor Lothar, issued an "extermination order," the terms of which provided that no Herero man, woman, child or babe was to receive mercy or quarter.

But one of the most significant documents in the report is a secret circular by Governor Heitz in 1912 and addressed to magistrates in which he refers to the desperate feeling becoming prevalent among the natives.

"The reason," he states, "which continuously is given for this fact is that the excesses of Europeans against natives is openly increasing. It is regrettable that such offenses are not punished by the courts of law in a way that they ought to be according to a sense of justice to the natives."

No Mercy to Natives. Acting Secretary Georges supplies sworn statements from natives which give some idea of the reign of terror existing among them. He adds:

"The instances of cruelty, injustice and barbarism might be multiplied almost indefinitely. Instances of gross brutality and immorality are well nigh uncountable, and are also contained in the file of affidavits, but they are hardly fit for publication."

Part two of the report deals at length with the position of the natives before the law. The ordinance governing criminal jurisdiction over the natives contained provisions repugnant to every conception of justice. Imprisonment in chains and flogging were allowed not only for serious crimes, but as "disciplinary measures" on the application of an employer or for offenses against the master and servants law. No opportunity of redress was open to them and they placed not only in the police with complaints. Crimes by Germans, however, against natives were reviewed by the courts.

PEACE ON EARTH

By ED SCHWARZ

Oh, let us hope that, when this war is over, liberty for all the world is won.

When Kaiser, King and czar have had their day.

When rich and poor alike shall have their say.

When wives and mothers vote—then will we have no more.

We heard the clash of swords and cannon's roar.

Ambitious nations can no longer fill the world with murder at their leisure will.

A brotherhood of nations will endure and conquer all the world.

And Peace on Earth will come into its own.

A brotherhood of nations will endure and conquer all the world.

And Peace on Earth will come into its own.

A brotherhood of nations will endure and conquer all the world.

The returns collected by the board at its last meeting show the election of T. J. Dunlap as supervisor for district No. 1, lying north and west of the San Joaquin river. He will assume the duties of office the first Monday in March. Major Hestley, whose term expires, has been a faithful and conscientious officer, uniformly courteous, and yet firm in his efforts to manage public affairs economically and for the general good.

Dunahoo & Shanklin have purchased a twenty-foot front next to the drug store of the lot recently bought by C. W. DeLong and will put up a two-story brick on the same. Price paid, $500.

George Bates, the fruit dealer, is selling first class raisins raised this season on Mrs. Smith's place in Central Valley. They are from Muscat vines, brought as cuttings from Blower's vineyard, Yolo county, two years ago. They are really fine and every one should take a look at them.

All over Europe local "souvenir" postcards are on sale, each containing on the back views of the place from which they are sent, and perhaps some brief sentiment, with space for a written message. The cards are very popular with tourists as mementos to their friends, and incidentally they serve as a very good advertisement of places worth advertising. Under the new regulations of our postal service, such cards are permitted in this country. Once introduced, they will be popular. Would not the Fresno City be a good place to introduce them?—Editorial.

Two new gasoline motor cars for the Southern Pacific railroad have arrived. Whichever one of them was given a trial run yesterday afternoon, carrying a party of railroad officials, business men and others interested in the venture, which is comparatively new for the San Joaquin valley, it concerned, to Los Angeles and back. The new car made a successful run by way of Clovis. No attempt was made at high speed, the trip being merely to go over the road and introduce the new means of transportation to the crowd of interested passengers. It is probable that the company will start these cars, one to Kernan, the other to Clovis, on their regular run tomorrow, and the number of daily runs will be increased in proportion to demand.

MARRIAGE—AND WAR

By Helen Rowland
"The Main Cause of All the Trouble in Marriage is That Most People Rush Into It Blindly, and Then Recover Their Sight."

Marriage is an ancient custom which has been revived since the war started, along with Colonial candlesticks, economy and the art of letter-writing.

It is now almost as fashionable and quaint as a top hat and a divorce.

In Germany it is becoming a necessity and a obligation—but in America it is still a luxury.

Marriage is NOT, as has been often declared, "a failure." Husbands and wives may be failures—but so are a lot of painters and sculptors and authors.

Marriage, like art, requires a special talent.

Marriage has been called "love's domestication"—the black coffee which a man takes to settle him, after love's intoxication.

Marriage is the miracle which transforms a man from whatever he happens to be into something different—a spendthrift into a miser, a rounder into a life-critic, a rake into a deacon, a butterfly into a grub—and vice versa.

The main cause of all the trouble in marriage is that most people rush into it blindly and then recover their sight, instead of going into it with their eyes wide open and then closing them forever.

After marriage they look for "perfection," after marriage for imperfections. Before marriage they regard each other through rose-colored glasses; after marriage through a microscope.

Marriage should be a privilege, not a duty.

R-REVIEWS-R
HIPPODROME OPENS FOR 1918-19 SEASON

The Hippodrome reopened its doors yesterday and received a splendid room only welcome from the people of Fresno. Mr. Ward Morris, the resident manager, has returned from a summer's stay at the San Francisco house and is glad to get back among old friends and full of plans for the coming season. Mr. Morris says that the Hippodrome is better this year than last in the line of theatricals, and increased attendance throughout the Hippodrome makes the management to provide for this season a classier array of entertainers than was possible prior to this time.

One of the improvements promised by Mr. Morris is a much better grade of moving pictures, to be held as nearly as possible to five-reelers, with special attention paid to their presentation. The Hippodrome is better this year than last in the line of theatricals, and increased attendance throughout the Hippodrome makes the management to provide for this season a classier array of entertainers than was possible prior to this time.

The Hippodrome reopened its doors yesterday and received a splendid room only welcome from the people of Fresno. Mr. Ward Morris, the resident manager, has returned from a summer's stay at the San Francisco house and is glad to get back among old friends and full of plans for the coming season. Mr. Morris says that the Hippodrome is better this year than last in the line of theatricals, and increased attendance throughout the Hippodrome makes the management to provide for this season a classier array of entertainers than was possible prior to this time.

MURDER OUTRAGES MASSACRE

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 15.—In a recent address at a meeting of the Bavarian Christian Farmers' Union, the Bavarian minister of the interior, Von Bretschneider, declared that it was not the military situation which makes the period through which Germany is now passing "the very gravest and severest period of the war." It is due to the fact, he said, that "many have become faint-hearted and have wavered in the fire."

STRENGTH. Stella—I see financial are to be exempted. Bolla—I should think they would be very useful in putting out the enemy's fire.

LONDON, Sept. 14, Saturday.—The huge additional potato crop grown in England in 1917 enabled that country to maintain its position as a belligerent, visiting American editors were told at a dinner today. Dowland E. Prothero, president of the board of agriculture, the speaker said that, but for this year's crop, Great Britain might have been starved into submission.

HELLO GIRL TAKEN IN SAN FRANCISCO

"Dolly Snow under arrest," is the gist of a message received by the Fresno police department from Daniel
J. O'Brien, acting chief of the San Francisco police yesterday, concerning a former local telephone operator.
While the girl has an aunt here, she herself was not known and had been employed by the telephone company only a short time. The cause of her leaving Fresno for the bay city is not known.

FLOATER GIVEN TO FOWLER MAN

"Happy Jack" (C. L.) Holderman of
